CALL FOR PAPERS

The 18th ACM ASIA Conference on Computer and Communications Security (ACM ASIACCS 2023) will be held in Melbourne, Australia from July 10th to July 14th, 2023. We welcome submissions on all technical aspects of security and privacy, including “Systemization of Knowledge” (SoK) papers. However, purely theoretical (e.g., cryptography-focused, with no security/application connections) submissions are not encouraged. The same goes for submissions focused primarily on blockchains or machine learning. Submissions will fall into one of three categories, each reviewed using different criteria: (1) novel attacks/flaws/exploits, (2) new constructs, and (3) SoK-s. The number of accepted submissions will be carefully balanced across all three categories.

SUBMISSION INSTRUCTIONS:
Submission to ACM ASIACCS 2023 must be original (i.e., not previously published) and not currently under review by any other conference or journal. ASIACCS is employing a double-blind reviewing process. All submissions should be appropriately anonymized. Author names and affiliations should not appear in the paper. Authors should avoid obvious self-references and should appropriately blind them if used. The list of authors cannot be changed (but the order can be) after submission, unless approved by Program Co-Chairs.

FORMATING:
All submissions must be written in legible English and should not require decryption to be reviewed. Papers must be in PDF format and at most 12 pages long, including the, with up to 3 additional pages for a well-marked appendix. Note that an appendix cannot exceed 3 pages even if the main text is under 12 pages. Submissions must be prepared using the latest ACM Sigconf style conference template only (available here). All fonts, images, tables, and figures must comply with common ACM standards. Titles of SoK papers must begin with “SoK:”. Submissions not meeting formatting requirements risk rejection without review.
